Dear Deaf Community Foundation of BC:

As a valued client of RBC Dominion Securities, I would like to assure you of the multiple safeguards that we have in place to protect your accounts and assets.

RBC Dominion Securities is the leading full service wealth management firm in Canada and one of the oldest: we have been providing professional advice since 1901. We are a fully-owned subsidiary of RBC. As of October 31, 2015, we are the largest bank in Canada by market capitalization, the 13th largest bank globally according to market capitalization, with operations in over 40 countries. RBC has a high quality balance sheet and solid liquidity. We are committed to helping you achieve your long-term investment and wealth management goals, as well as strictly following regulatory and industry rules in order to protect your securities and cash balances. Assets that we hold on behalf of clients are protected in the following ways:

- RBC Dominion Securities is a participant in the Canadian Depository for Securities (CDS), which is Canada's national securities depository, clearing and settlement hub. CDS supports Canada's equity, fixed income and money markets; the vast majority of securities held for DS client and firm positions are held with CDS, which issues its own Report on Internal Controls and Safeguards, available at www.cds.ca
- Our clients' fully-paid securities are segregated in separate custody accounts and cannot be used by RBC Dominion Securities in the conduct of business. Your segregated securities are subject to comprehensive audit by both in-house and external independent bodies: RBC Internal Audit, PwC LLP (our external auditor) and IIROC, the Investment Industry Regulatory Organization of Canada.
- Our account statements fully disclose the securities owned and segregated on your behalf, and our records are verified on an ongoing basis through daily reporting as well as through the audit measures indicated above.
- RBC Dominion Securities also complies with its obligation to segregate client securities which is outlined in IIROC rule 2000.8 by performing daily segregation calculations, which is consistent with the approach used by other major financial institutions. These calculations drive our reporting and actions that ensure we remain compliant and segregate client securities properly and on a timely basis.

- PwC LLP also performs an annual audit of RBC Dominion Securities' client accounts: our clients are advised to contact PwC auditors of any errors or omissions on their statements.
- RBC Dominion Securities is a member of the Canadian Investor Protection Fund (CIPF), which ensures that your cash and securities are protected within defined limits. (CIPF has a very good website, which provides more detailed information: www.cipf.ca)
- Finally, RBC Dominion Securities is a member of the Investment Industry Regulatory Organization of Canada (IIROC), and must maintain minimum capital ratios under a formula designed to protect against insolvency and provide liquidity of assets.

I hope this information provides you with additional confidence in the holdings you have entrusted to RBC Dominion Securities. I thank you for your business and continued patronage.
